

We are registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission as an investment adviser. Brokerage and investment advisory services fees differ and it is important for you to understand the differences. Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at <http://investor.gov/crs>, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

Our firm offers investment advisory services, which are fully described in our Form ADV Part 2A (“Disclosure Brochure”). Our services include financial planning, consulting, and investment management services. As part of our standard services, we monitor investments that we manage on a continuous and ongoing basis. There are no material limitations to our monitoring. Financial planning and investment consulting recommendations are not actively monitored. We accept discretionary authority to implement the recommended transactions in client accounts. The level of discretion is determined in our agreement and there are no material limitations on the authority. We do not offer advice only with respect to proprietary products. We offer advice on individual equity and debt securities, along with mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (“ETFs”), and structured notes. Our services are not subject to a minimum fee or account size.

Additional information about our services can be found in Items 4, 5 and 7 of our Disclosure Brochure and available to all clients or by going here: <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/289899>

Let’s discuss...

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?”
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?

We offer our services on a fee basis. We offer our wealth management services for an annual fee based on the amount of assets under the Firm’s management. The annual fee is prorated and charged quarterly, in advance. We charge a fixed project-based fee to provide clients with retirement plan consulting services. Each engagement is individually negotiated and tailored to accommodate the needs of the individual plan sponsor.

In addition to the advisory fees paid to us, you also incur certain charges imposed by other third parties, such as broker-dealers, custodians, etc. These additional charges include securities brokerage commissions, transaction fees, custodial fees, fees charged by independent managers, margin costs, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund or ETF in a client’s account, as disclosed in the fund’s prospectus (e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses), deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions.

The more assets there are in your advisory accounts, the more you will pay in fees, so the firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account or manage them in a way where we increase your account value to earn more revenue. You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. Additional information about our fees can be found in Item 5 of our Disclosure Brochure and available to all clients or by going here: <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/289899>

Let’s discuss... Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

- Third-Party Payments: While we do not receive compensation from third parties when we recommend investments, our supervised persons or affiliates can receive these in their individual capacities for brokerage and insurance related activities. This results in an incentive for our supervised persons or affiliates to recommend those investments and potentially more frequent purchases.

Let's discuss... How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

Additional information about our conflicts of interest can be found throughout our Disclosure Brochure and available to all clients or by going here: <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/289899>

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are compensated based on the following factors and conflicts of interest:

- Revenue the firm earns from the financial professional's advisory services or recommendations. All of our current financial professionals are owners of the firm. Our compensation is based on the percentage of ownership each professional has in the firm. This results in an incentive to take steps to maximize revenue to the firm.
- The product sold and sales commissions. While not earned as financial professionals of our firm, this results in an incentive to sell brokerage services and insurance products more frequently.

Additional information about our financial professionals can be found on their respective Form ADV Part 2 Brochure Supplements that you will be provided.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?
